Paris, February 26, 2007

Aéroports de Paris has sold its entire stake in BCIA for a total of approximately 1,970.4 million Hong Kong dollars

Today, the Aéroports de Paris group sold its interest in Beijing Capital International Airport Company Limited (BCIA), operator of the Beijing airport in China, for a placing price of 7.77 Hong Kong dollars (HKD) per share, or a gross total amount of 1,970.4 million Hong Kong dollars (HKD), i.e. 191.6 million euros. This transaction was conducted through an accelerated placement with institutional investors. The sole placing agent was Morgan Stanley & Co. International Limited.

This transaction marks the conclusion of a fruitful collaboration of more than 7 years between Aéroports de Paris Management and BCIA.

On the occasion of this transaction, and given its successful intervention in Beijing, Aéroports de Paris reaffirms its willingness to accompany the Chinese authorities in their development of airports in China, in particular at the regional level.

More generally, this transaction is part of our Group's international strategy, which focuses on interventions in airports with strong development potential, where the Group's industrial expertise as an airport operator is the most useful and value adding.
