Aéroports de Paris wins the prize for the best sustainable development report

On 21 February 2013, the Conseil Supérieur de l'Ordre des Experts-Comptables awarded Aéroports de Paris the prize for the best sustainable development and societal responsibility report in the "companies not belonging to the CAC 40" category.

Each year, this prize recognises the quality and accuracy of environmental, social and societal information provided by a company. Since 1999, Aéroports de Paris has been publishing its annual environment report, which has become a Corporate Social Responsibility report.

This report illustrates Aéroports de Paris' ambitious policy in this area, its total commitment to the cause, and the operational application of the policy in all company activity. It also highlights the collective stance adopted on all CSR issues with Paris airports partners (airlines and local development stakeholders).

Finally, the report demonstrates real transparency with regards to all the company's stakeholders. On this occasion, Didier Hamon, Environment and Sustainability Director, commented: "this prize recognises Aéroports de Paris' long-standing commitment to sustainable development that brings us closer to excellence in our industry".
