An additional 1,200 m² of retail space dedicated to beauty care and French lifestyle at Paris-Charles de Gaulle airport

Two new BuY PARIS DUTY FREE multi-brand stores will provide a further 1,200 m² of retail space exclusively dedicated to perfumes, cosmetics, wines & spirits, tobacco products and fine foods.

Both stores, located in Terminal 2F of Paris-Charles de Gaulle airport, will be offering prestigious brands such as Chanel, Dior, Hermès, Lancôme, Guerlain, Yves Saint Laurent, Armani, and Givenchy.

These retail outlets of nearly 600 m² feature several areas dedicated to:

- particular perfume makers (Chloé, Issey Miyake, Kenzo, Jean-Paul Gaultier, and more)
- and top-of-the-range brands (Serge Lutens, Annick Goutal).

New brands have also made an appearance. Among them are the very selective L'Atelier Cologne and Diptyque (their first airport corner), leading make-up brand By Terry, Clarisonic, Durance and more accessible brands such as Bourjois and Yves Rocher.

An exceptional wine cellar

The two BuY PARIS DUTY FREE stores have taken special care over their sections for wine, champagne (Moët & Chandon, Veuve Clicquot) and cognac (Rémy Martin, Hennessy), highly prized by international passengers.

Aéroports de Paris and its partners offer a wide range of wines, from small plots for wine-lovers (including the AOC Bordeaux Supérieur Château de Seguin 2010, on sale for €10.90, the best seller in 2012*), to the prestigious and extremely rare Grand Crus and great vintages for collectors.

With these two new stores, the Paris Airports now have 72 BuY PARIS DUTY FREE retail outlets.
