Groupe ADP, Schiphol Group and Incheon International Airport Corporation renew their cooperation agreement

Groupe ADP, Schiphol Group and Incheon International Airport Corporation have renewed their strategic partnership agreement for another four years.

The first agreement between the three French, Dutch and Korean airport operators signed in July 2011 and then renewed in 2014, sought to improve the quality of customer service and provided for the exchange of good practices in the following areas: aeronautical activities, airport shops, cargo and human resources.

Numerous meetings were held in Paris, Amsterdam, and Seoul over the course of the last three years, allowing the teams involved to discuss their respective challenges and each other's best practices.

The three partners, satisfied with the outcome of this non-equity partnership, have renewed their strategic partnership agreement for another four years by extending it into new areas, including innovation and digital technology.

This agreement was signed at the headquarters of Incheon International Airport Corporation in the presence of Edward Arkwright, Groupe ADP Deputy CEO, Jos Nijhuis, President & CEO of Schiphol Group and Il-Young Chung, President & CEO of Incheon International Airport Corporation.
